

Keep 'em coming back for more!

The easy way to creating a fun, engaging and super sticky website.

What's the best and easiest way to get shoppers to come back?

They need to have a good time shopping on your site. It seems so simple, but when customers (and anyone) have a good time, they naturally want to do it again. If they struggle, get lost, or get bored, why come back? The biggest problem today's websites have is that they are designed for customers to get in, find what they want, and get out fast. They're designed by men, who are largely item shoppers, for the way men shop. Women and men who enjoy shopping, don't have the experience that they need to enjoy the online shopping experience. That's why Stylaquin is so effective at bringing shoppers back. It makes the shopping experience fun, it makes the products more interesting to browse, and it gives people who love to shop the tools need to really dive in. Sites using Stylaquin have seen increases in the return customer rate of over 40%.

Styloquin is easy to add and costs nothing if your customers don't use it. Styloquin is so unique it's patented.

Let's take a look.

Add a whole new experience to your website:

Styloquin improves the online shopping experience for both mobile and desktop by bringing the aspirational qualities of catalog and magazine shopping to existing e-commerce platforms and websites, and by making it easier for shoppers to manage items they're considering for purchase. Styloquin also provides merchants with better tools for online branding. Styloquin can be added to any website without platform changes. It requires only API access and a few lines of code, similar to google analytics. It's kind of magic.

Styloquin adds a slim bar to your website, like this.
